

Why is Priority Support Important?

All computer and IT technologies will malfunction at various times in any user setting.

21st century organisations recognise they must have access to technical assistance and expertise that is able to resolve these malfunctions quickly, efficiently with minimum impact on their operations.

For Healthcare practices IT infrastructure reliability is more critical than most other organisations.

Argus secure messaging capability is quickly becoming an integral part of healthcare practice infrastructure where practices are becoming more and more dependent on this aspect of their IT capacity in support of their day-to-day work practices.

The ArgusConnect Priority Support service is designed to assure healthcare practices that they have dependable, accessible, technical expertise when they need it and at a predictable cost.

Because Priority Support is pre-paid, the cost is capped at the single annual fee such that regardless of difficulty of the technical problem, there will be no cost blowout.

ArgusConnect's Priority Support coverage is probably the most affordable in the healthcare industry despite the fact that all ArgusConnect support staff are qualified, trained and expert in most operating environments and the Argus product.
